

Come Clean

by The Tonk Honkys © 2013

Why do you always change what you say everyday somebody new comes along Correct me if I'm wrong, but that's exactly what's going on And when you finally tell the truth is it just to prove you do more than mislead but what about all those other deeds that you've done

(I know why) You have that look in your eye
Nothings never ever good enough for you (I know why) You always deny that every single word that I say is true (Just come clean) It ain't obscene to admit that the grass isn't always green
You may say I don't know what I'm talking about
But I do without a doubt

When was the last time you turned on a dime just to prove to yourself You're not like no one else, at least that's what you tell yourself
And if I told you that I knew all the things that you do would you finally be free or would you try to silence me

(I know why) You have that look in your eye
Nothings never ever good enough for you
(I know why) You always deny
that every single word that I say is true (Just come clean) It ain't obscene to admit what we've all been guilty of being
You may say I don't know what I'm talking about
But I do without a doubt